

Roxanne Decyk

Roxanne Decyk retired in 2010 from the position of Executive Vice President, Global Government Relations for Royal Dutch Shell.

Previously, she was a member of the Executive Committee of Royal Dutch Shell Plc and served as Corporate Affairs and Sustainable Development Director, chief of staff for Shell Oil company and head of strategy for Royal Dutch Shell.

She has also held senior positions with Amoco Oil Corporation and Navistar, formerly International Harvester Company. Early in her career, she practiced law with a major U.S. firm and worked in the advertising and public relations fields.

Active in a number of international industry and community organizations, Roxanne has served on the boards of several companies in both the US and the UK and currently is a non-executive director of Digital Globe, EnSCO Plc and Orbital ATK. She currently chairs the Orbital ATK compensation committee and the Digital Globe risk committee and has, in the past, chaired remuneration/compensation, governance, nominating and audit committees. Roxanne has been awarded the Directors Choice Award.

In 2013, Roxanne was appointed to the Defense Business Board, a civilian advisory board to the Department of Defense, and has served on the Subcommittee for Capacity Building and Skills Training of the International Council on Women's Business Leadership for the US State Department. She is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, the Chicago Council on Global Affairs and the Committee of 200. She also serves as president of the Georgia O'Keeffe Museum in Santa Fe.

Roxanne graduated from the University of Illinois with a degree in English literature and advertising and from Marquette University with a Juris Doctor.

In addition to her portfolio of international corporate and philanthropic boards, she continues her research and lecturing on comparative international governance and sustainable development topics and is a Ford Scholar at the Ford Center for Global Citizenship at Northwestern University. She and her husband, Lew Watts, live in Chicago and Santa Fe.