

F. Miguel Noyola

Miguel Noyola is a partner at Baker & McKenzie LLP where he chairs the International Commercial Practice Group in North America. He advises leading multinational companies on doing business and investing in Mexico and Latin America.

Miguel concentrates his practice on cross-border acquisitions and joint ventures, and has extensive experience advising on cross-border supply chain strategies and complex commercial and licensing arrangements. He has assisted many clients in developing and implementing solutions to investment, operational and compliance challenges faced in cross-cultural and international settings.

Miguel is an adjunct professor of law at Georgetown University Law Center, where he teaches a course on Cross-Border Transactions. He served as chairman and is a current board member of the US/Mexico Chamber of Commerce, Mid-America Chapter. He received the "Client Service All-Star" designation by BTI Consulting in 2011. The global International Commercial practice, led by Miguel in North America, received an exclusive Band One ranking in the Global Commercial Contracts section of Chambers Global in 2015 and 2016.
