

David Nichols

Principal Advisory Services

David is a Principal and member of the Executive Committee in the Advisory Services practice of Ernst & Young LLP (EY). He is the Americas Inorganic Growth Leader, focused on driving new growth opportunities in Advisory through innovation with key external companies.

David previously served as EY's IT and Digital Transformation Leader for the Americas, where he helped clients adopt technology and digital solutions into all aspects of their business strategy, operations and workforce. In this role, his primary focus was supporting senior executives to help bridge the gap between business and IT by providing solutions in the areas of Strategic Technology, Technology Management Services, Security, Enterprise Architecture Services and Technology Infrastructure Services.

Prior to joining EY, David was the Global Managing Partner for Accenture's Service Oriented Architecture practice with global responsibility for the resource growth, financial growth, marketing, strategy, capability development, delivery-asset development, and internal and external communications.

David serves on the board of directors for the McCormick School of Engineering (Northwestern University), Lincoln Park Zoo, Chicago Urban League and True Star Publications. He's also a member of the Executive Leadership Council.
